#Domesticabuse often escalates when a woman tries to leave the perpetrator. It's essential that there is a coordinated community response in place to protect women, hold perpetrators to account and prevent #postseparationabuse.

Domestic Abuse Commissioner
@CommissionerDA

This week is post-separation abuse awareness week.

For many victims of domestic abuse, abuse continues or even begins post-separation.

The Domestic Abuse Act 2021 made post-separation coercive control a crime, but there is still further to go.

We need more robust training & responses from police & judiciary to secure prosecutions for post-separation coercive control.

The Online Safety Bill which passed yesterday provides an opportunity to respond and prevent coercive behaviour inflicted through social media. (2/3)

We must also see far better support & protection for adult & child victims of domestic abuse going through the trauma of the family court post-separation.

My #FamilyCourt report this summer called for a child-centric approach ↓
